TELEGRAMS

Paris, March 5th.—Another Anarchist attempt was discovered yesterday, when two dynamite cartridges were discovered on the doorstep of the police barracks at Ouen sur Seine. The rain prevented their exploding.

Vienna, 5th—Serious riots have occurred in Tobalsk, Siberia. There are no particulars. Prince Galitzin has been hastily sent there with powers to put down the movement.

London, 5th—Great excitement has been caused by the elections to the County Councils. Gladstone's return has caused a change in the parliamentary tactics of the Opposition, which seems inclined to pursue a pacific policy and let Salisbury's Government work out its own destruction.

Berlin, 5th—Advices from Dantzic report a great riot and assault on the bakeries there yesterday, by unemployed workmen. The police had great difficulty in restoring order.

Paris, 5th—The Radical newspapers, commenting on the first steps of the Loubet cabinet, state that much confidence cannot be placed in the triumphs of these days, since such triumphs may be caused by the general desire to prevent the recurrence of a crisis, which, given the difficulty attending the solution of the last, would place the Government in a serious predicament.

London, 5th—Advices from Lagos, on the West Coast of Africa, state that the natives are conspiring to hinder British traffic. The situation is very serious. Several merchants here have received notice not to send any more goods.

Bombay, 5th—The steamer Deccan, en route from Mauritius to this port, is supposed to have been lost in the recent storm. She is 13 days overdue.

Brussels, 5th—Great sensation has been caused by the announcement that the workmen have resolved to oppose the Congo scheme.

Brisbane, 5th—In view of the considerable number of people out of work, the Government has prohibited immigration.

THE ORPHANAGE OF SAN MIGUEL

To-day there is a truce to politics, and the President of the Republic, accompanied by some hundreds of persons of all political colors and nationalities, will proceed by special train to San Miguel to assist at the official inauguration of the Orphanage at that town, built by the Gallardo family.

The asylum stands on a grant of eight English acres, measuring 200 varas on each side, and is composed of a handsome two-story building of palatial dimensions, finished in the best style of Italian architecture and resembling the Villa Albani, outside the Porta Salara at Rome. It is surrounded by a park tastefully laid out, and accommodates at present 140 orphans boys, whose rosy cheeks and neat appearance shew the attention which they receive from the Sisters of San Jose. The institution receives no State subsidy, being maintained wholly by voluntary contributions, and among the community are some Irish sisters.

In the brief of space of 11 years the Congregation of Sisters of St. Joseph has made rapid progress. We believe it is the first Argentine religious order established, or possibly the first in South America. It was founded in 1880 by Doña Camila Rolon, who devoted her life and fortune to this work of charity, and is the actual Superior, the first house having been opened at Mercedes, in this province, on January 28th of the above year. The orphanage of San Jose at Rojas was opened in October 1885, mainly through the munificence of the late Don Saturnino Unzue. The superb asylum at San Miguel (sometimes called Bella Vista) was built by Doña Dorotea Gallardo and opened on the 14th May 1888, the generous donor also providing all the furniture, besides building a handsome chapel alongside.

Don Leon Gallardo, who may be styled "the lord of the manor" and possesses a very fine property adjoining the asylum, continues the same princely generosity towards the institution that was characteristic of the foundress, and we are happy to think that this spirit of beneficence is not likely to diminish among the class of wealthy Argentine landowners.

In the four years that have elapsed since the foundation at San Miguel the Sisters of St. Joseph have been enabled, through the aid of numerous estancieros, to open a similar asylum at Salto, province of Buenos Ayres, and a hospital at Chacabuco, besides commencing the construction of a Magdalen Asylum intended for the same purpose as the Good Shepherd convent at Finchley, London.

The orphanages are, however, the principal object of Mother Camila's tender solicitude. "We have," says she, "altogether more than 400 orphans to "maintain, clothe and educate, without other revenue or endowment than "Divine Providence sends us in the "way of alms and donations." There are certain families who give liberally, such as those of Gallardo, Unzué, Miró, Dorrego, Laprida, Rolon, Frias, Arias, Iraola, Borbon, Estrada, Casares, Pellegrini, Gallo, Petronilla Rodriguez, Jose Solveira, Amadeo, Melo, Saubidet, Esquivel, Miguens, Chabry, Quirno Costa and Ventura Coll, besides hundreds of others.

There is no distinction made as to the nationality of children seeking admission; any orphan between the ages of 3 and 8 years is taken in, without fee or charge, requiring no other recommendation than a letter certifying that the child has no parents, or that its parents are in a destitute condition.

Last year Mother Camila made a journey to Rome to lay the statutes of her order before Pope Leo XIII. and solicit his solemn approval. Nothing could be more cordial than the reception given her by the Holy Father, who rejoiced to see an Argentine lady devote her life and fortune to the care of orphans, and to learn that Argentine men of rank and position co-operate generously in the same noble purpose.

OUR LONDON LETTER.

UP TO DATE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

February 4th.

You will have reminded your readers long since that the recently deceased Baptist Minister, Charles Haddon Spurgeon, was born June 19, 1834, at Kelvedon, Essex. You may have added that the Spurgeons, originally of Dutch descent, who emigrated to England to avoid the persecutions of Alva, were at one time Quakers. The great preacher's grandfather and father were Congregational ministers. Before the father entered the ministry he was a working man. Charles Spurgeon was therefore born in poverty, and received little education. But the preaching instinct in him was hereditary and became precociously manifest. More particulars are not within my province. What I have to say is that newspapers and writers of all denominations and parties write in speaking of the departed celebrity with admiration and respect. He was sincere in his opinions and courageous in their assertion. These are qualities that go straight to the heart of the English, and induce them to overlook oddities of manner and defects in regard to refinement and even intellectuality. As Spurgeon said himself "I may be vulgar; I dare say I am; but I will make the people listen to me." He thought there was enough of polite preaching elsewhere. Some of the oddities he practised himself in his ministration he would not permit in others. It is told as a true tale that at one of the weekly prayer meetings at the Tabernacle, where it was his custom to call upon any one of his congregation to offer up a prayer, he once invited a man to pray who followed the profession of a dustman. The man commences 'Oh Lord, we are all dust.' This was almost too much for the gravity of the congregation; and when the fellow went on to thank the Lord "that he had put into the heart of his servant Charles Spurgeon to send him (the dustman) a leg of mutton," it was too much for Spurgeon himself, who indignantly ordered the man to sit down. There is, however, an abundance of records, proving that many of Mr. Spurgeon's own familiarisms of language were quite as absurd as the dustman's. We must bear that in mind in observing that at this moment there is a certain reaction setting in against aggressive evangelicalism and quite independently of the ministration of the great preacher whose dead body has not yet reached the shores of Britain. In the streets of Paris and in Finland as in Eastbourne, the Salvation Army is being persecuted; and the persecution is likely to grow as such things do grow, less through offended prejudice than through the human instinct of imitation. It is quite clear that the persecution of the Salvationists occurring simultaneously in France, Russia and England is not caused by the religious fanaticism of any particular sect. It is not only the Salvationists who are the object of the kind of persecution I allude to, which I take to be the result of a reaction against a rather vulgar form of democratic self-assertion and aggressiveness. Messrs. Moody and Sankey are now in Scotland, telling what they consider to be plain and wholesome truths to the Scottish people who, one would have thought, would be the last to need spiritual stimulant and the enticement of music to lead them to return to the straight and narrow path. But Mr. Moody tells them that they must not imagine that going to kirk on Sundays is sufficient for salvation. In no place, he says, that he has ever been into, has he more often seen the devil at church than in Aberdeen and Dundee. The Moody and Sankey campaign in Scotland, says the Pall Mall Gazette, seems to be greatly exciting some of the ministers of the Established Church there. One well known in their ranks, the Rev. James Rankin, of Muthill, writes to the Scotsman regarding one of the evangelists' meetings in this strain:—

"The topic of address at the chief meeting was all right—the work of the Holy Spirit. But mark the vile degradation of this most sacred theme by the slangy allusion to the Yankee advertisement of "a shop to let with power;" also the Pharisaic and semi-blasphemous assumption that this Divine power for conviction and conversion stands in specially close connection with Messrs. Moody and Sankey; and for a third outrage the monstrously unchristian taunt that the ordinary run of ministry in Scotland is without spiritual vitality or fruitfulness. It makes one's blood boil to have the ordinances of our native country thus vilified by fellows who hawk the country with an American hurdy-gurdy. The land of heather, mountain and flood that has been Christian from the days of St. Columba, St. Kentigern and St. Cuthbert, to have its people and their religion flouted by a pair of strolling mountebanks, and these surrounded and backed up by a clique of obsequious ministers, including a Principal and Professor connected with two Theological Halls!"

Mr. Rankin holds that his countrymen have no need of "the profane and superfluous fad of a peripatetic gospel." He is evidently of the same opinion as the Scotsman who, when asked if he was on his way to heaven, replied, "Ah, mon, I live there!"

Now, there are to my mind, worse things than hurdy-gurdies and there are other more dangerous elements in aggressive evangelicism which will lead to a still more pronounced reaction unless people have the good sense to repress under certain circumstances the utterance of extreme opinions. My own particular friends, the Socialists in the streets, are quite as objectionable in this respect. I shall be credited therefore with the sincerity of my respect for all eccentricities of opinion or faith, when I confess that with my mind just filled with Mr. Tekla's predictions of the future marvels of electricity, including daily telegrams from our friends in the sun and stars, I had to readjust my eyeglasses after reading the following telegrams from Mentone, announcing the death of Mr. Spurgeon:—

"Mentone 11.50

"Spurgeon's Tabernacle, London

This is what is vulgarly called "cutting it short"—a violent suppression of all intermediate doctrine and speculation and, in its time-table wording, decidedly up to date.

Some time ago I drew your attention to Professor Crookes' astonishing revelations in regard to the possibilities of electricity. He has repeated his speculations in this month's Fortnightly Review. He refers there to a young American electrician, Mr. Tekla, from whom as well as from Professor Lodge's researches he seems to have acquired his knowledge and inspiration. Mr Tekla himself is now in London. He has been lecturing at the Royal Institution. The degree of excessive energy of vibration he has induced, resulting in heated imaginations even in the habitually unexcitable brains of suburban Londoners, may be gathered from the first leading article in to-day's Times. Fellows like most of us, with intellects of quite molecular dimensions, feel dazed at the conception of monads of one unit, monads of two units of electrified atomicities, collecting automatically in the primordial protyl to form future conglomerations of worlds and animated organisms. But Lor bless you. I remember the early prophecies when telegrams were started; and the day will come when, attending to our farms and businesses, as we do now, we shall read the latest news from the sun as we read present daily quotations of the premium on gold in B. Ayres.

The Conservative leader in Cork, Captain Sarsfield, is dead. He became ill soon after the late election, and complications set, in which the physicians were powerless to combat. An important victim to influenza is Sir Morell Mackenzie, who died to-day of syncope, and very suddenly. Since last summer Sir Morell suffered from cold and he was recently attacked by the prevailing pest. His condition gave no anxiety to within an hour of his decease. Only his wife was present at his death. Sir Morell was a Scot, born at Leytonshire, in Essex, in 1837. His father, Mr. Stephen Mackenzie, was a medical man, but in very poor circumstances. Such was the poverty of the family that, as the newspapers pathetically relate in words not flattering to us plebeians of trade, that only the charity of friends saved Morell Mackenzie from—I suppose the degradation—of a commercial career. His mother, who is said to have been a woman of great ability, was a Miss Harvey. Sir Morell Mackenzie, in his last illness, was attended by his brother, Dr. Stephen Mackenzie.

Mrs. Osborne is said to have surrendered. She is reported to have arrived at Dover this afternoon, and, in charge of detectives, she came to London by the 4.50 train. The heroine of the great "pearl case" is reported to have surrendered to save her husband the pain of resigning his commission in the carabineers; Captain Osborne has obtained leave until July next. The Hargreaves, Pink and Co. and all concerned have, in the meanwhile, been paid losses and costs. It is thought that Mrs. Osborne will be had only on the charge of appropriating £550.

Amongst the sensations of the hour are the wreck of the German liner Eider, between the Needles and St. Catherine's Point, on the coast of the Isle of Wight, and the stranding of the flagship Victoria on the West Coast of Greece.

Financial matters here and on the continent are not easy. Financial scandals have occurred in Paris. The particulars are not yet to hand: bankers have been arrested.

The Eider's passengers, mails and specie are landed by the life-boats. The Queen has sent a letter of thanks to the crews of the life-boats. The Captain of the Eider with a few of his crew still sticks to the ship in the hope of getting her off. She ran ashore in a fog and mistook the foghorns of the Needles for fog signals from Hurst Castle on the port side. It was the Captain's first voyage in command. There is very little chance of saving the ship. The Atherfield Ledge on which she grounded is a cluster of needle-shaped rocks. The maize which was at the bottom is floating on shore.

PROVINCIAL NEWS.

We note that the Salteños are beginning to think that their mines will save the country and destroy the crisis. Considerable mining enthusiasm prevails in Salta. Specimens of rich ore are being exhibited in the streets. The Salteña Company had on view sixteen tons of splendid argentiferous lead. The mining industry in that province will soon take a fresh spurt in view of the extension of the Cabra-Corral railway. The great bane to mining enterprise in Salta and other provinces is the want of proper communication. The difficulties of communication are so great that the cost of transporting machinery is often more than the value of the machinery itself. Under such circumstances it is difficult to make a mine, however rich, pay. The Salta, Rioja and other provincial mines had a certain reputation in the time of the Spanish conquest. Several of the mines were worked and no doubt gave splendid results, but in the days of Almagro and Pizarro, the question of labor, to-day so serious, was a very small one, being reduced to feeding the natives whom the Spaniards compelled to work gratis and transport the ore on the same easy terms. The mining industry of the country is in an embryonic condition as yet, although there can be no doubt as to the immense mineral wealth concealed by nature in the bosom of the Cuyo mountains and in the south western portion of the republic. The samples of coal, now on view in the mining department, and brought from Neuquen, are pronounced to be excellent. But Neuquen is as yet even more backward in the way of communication than the Cuyo provinces, in spite of the facilities offered by the splendid rivers in the South.

The Finance Minister in San Juan has resigned. The reason of his withdrawal is that he wishes to practice as a doctor. Every man should stick to his profession.

The Corrientes mutiny was a mere bubble. No one was killed, no one was hurt. The soldiers rebelled because they were ill-fed.

LETTERS FROM PATAGONIA.

XV.

ALONE IN THE DESERT. TRAMPING ALONG.

Tuesday. Yesterday evening was devoted to feasting, in a Lord-mayorly way, (if I may say so). It was fortunate, for this morning we are in such a desperate hurry that we do not even find time for breakfast.

We take leave of our guests. Gallop again. José steers due south almost till, after some hours, getting somewhat anxious, I say:

"Why are we going south?"

"We are not, we are going eastward."

"Surely not. Look at the sun!"

"How can you say that? It is hardly past eight o'clock. Besides, look at the compass (and I pull it out from my pocket). Do you know these parts of the country?"

"Not much."

"Well, I am sufficiently acquainted with them to know that we are not likely to find any water before we get to Coy Inlet river, sixty miles from here at least. With your two horses, changing about and about, you might perhaps reach it, but I never, with my tired nag. Do me the favour to steer for the Santa Cruz river again."

The soldier obeys sulkily. Some hours pass. Then my horse begins to show signs of fatigue again, and lags behind. I shout to José not to leave me alone as he did yesterday.

"It is not that," says he, "only I want to get to the river in good time, that I may kill a guanaco or an ostrich for supper. I'll make a smoke signal, so you can rejoin easily."

He disappears beyond the horizon. I continue my weary march, without stopping, first because there is no time to be lost, and then because José has taken with him all the provisions, and I have nothing to eat.

In the evening I reach the top of the barranca that overlooks the Santa Cruz valley. No smoke in sight. I get down the precipice with some difficulty. Some six miles still stretch from the barranca to the river. But his last effort has completely exhausted my horse. He steadily objects to carry me any farther, showing his objection by lying down on the pebbles, and no persuasion can induce him to get up again whilst I am on his back. He but very reluctantly allows himself to be dragged by the bridle, and a weary three hours' task it is, till we reach the stream.

No smoke in sight.

A sudden thought, though not a happy one, flashes in my mind: Can it be that José has left me on purpose? He has got my revolver; (for, the night before yesterday, he expressed some silly fears about our sleeping without dogs and without mounting guard, so I very thoughtlessly lent him my weapon.) He has got the provisions. He has got some property of mine, clothes, papers and other nicknacks.

Can it be the temptation to steal them was strong enough to induce him to leave me to starve in the desert? That would explain his endeavouring to lead me southwards.

If this be so, it was at any rate kind of him not to kill me, which would have been easy enough, since I have no other weapon than my knife.

Well, we shall see by and by. Let us tether Juanino where the grass is greenest, after having given him a drink and a wash, smoke a pipe for supper, give a last small thought to lions, and go to bed among the ants in the sand.

Wednesday. Dawn. No smoke in sight. I saddle and mount my horse, upon which he immediately lies down, and peremptorily refuses to get up again. It is plain he cannot go, he is even stiffer than yesterday.

This is cheering.

Let us examine the situation. I know well where I am. I am at the foot of the first 'barranca blanca', at the west corner of Swamp Bend or Rincon Grande. The distance to Isla Pavon (the nearest settlement) ought to be from 25 to 30 leagues. Let us say twenty five, to look at the bright side of things. I can walk that in three days, and four days' fasting won't be the death of me.

On the other hand, I might kill and eat Juanino, but surely it would be a pity, for he is a brave little horse, and we have travelled together long.

So I turn him adrift in the pampa, he'll shift for himself. I bury my saddle, trappings, collections and the few worldly goods I have left under a bush, taking only with me my guanaco mantle and my bridle, for I may possibly meet with a loose horse when getting close to the settlements, or, if the worst comes to the worst, I might manage to manufacture with it and two pebbles a kind of 'bolas' and, though not at all proficient in the use of that weapon, might, if luck would have it kill a guanaco.

So I start. Due east is my way, for the river describes a vast curve towards the north, and I shall come up with it again some time or other.

It is a very weary march, the sun is hot, mosquitoes are plenty. Heavy top-boots are not the best thing for a walking hour, especially when the said boots are somewhat torn, so that the small hard pebbles get into them.

Never did I see so many guanacos on the plain. Hundreds and hundreds of them are feeding quietly. They look placidly at me as I tramp along, as if they know I cannot hurt them.

Mirage is a frequent phenomenon in Patagonia. Its usual mode of expressing itself (if you will allow my expressing myself thus) is by showing objects at the horizon lifted high above their real level. This is useful to me to-day, for long before I could perceive it in its ordinary circumstances, I see the river before me in the distance, a bright ribbon apparently flowing some yards above the level of the pampa.

Thursday. Slept well. I hope to pass Chikerook Aiken to day, for thence I shall only have some eight or ten leagues to Isla Pavon.

I reach it in the afternoon. The brook that flows in the glen is deep now, and I take a refreshing, though involuntary bath crossing it.

I also capture a swan, dead—of hunger, most likely, he is so very lean—several days ago, for the flesh is rather green, and has an evil smell. It is food, however, eatable if not palatable. But I have no time to cook it now, so I sling it over my shoulder and proceed on my peregrination. Forward is the word, while there is daylight.

I hoped to find Indians in Chikerook Aiken, it is one of their favourite camping grounds. They have been there, for I find lying about the hoofs and some bones of a horse, which they have evidently eaten. But they are gone.

Tramp! Tramp! Oh! but I'm getting very tired and foot-weary. I proceed but slowly. I sight a bush in the distance and say to myself: 'When you shall have reached that bush, I'll give you leave to sit down and rest for a minute or two.' For there are two men in me; one says: 'The bushes you select are very far distant; why not sit down at once and have a good rest and eat your swan and smoke calafate? What matter a few hours more or less?' And the other says: 'We must get to Isla Pavon to-morrow as soon as possible so you've got to tramp along, my boy, or I'll know the reason why.'

I have had occasion before to pass some days without food, and I found as I find now, that it causes no pain, no ache of any kind, at the most a keen appetite. But on the other hand strength declines rapidly, so that the slightest work seems a heavy exertion. The sun is now getting close to the horizon. Now we'll camp on the rivers shore, eat our swan and have a good night's rest. Let us have a drink first, the Santa Cruz water is very good water. I have lost my sardine box, but I have made another drinking vessel out of a piece of my overcoat.

I have only two matches left. I shall need one to-morrow, were it only to light a signal opposite Pavon island, so they may send me a boat or a horse to cross the river with. And I should like to smoke a pipe before starting too.—I have it! I'll put fire to the pampa, the grass is long and dry, there are many bushes about, and some of them are sure to burn until the morning. Besides, it will roast any number of mosquitoes, and vengeance is sweet.

T. Chapuis.

THE ENGLISH LITERARY SOCIETY'S EXCURSION TO TANDIL.

Accustomed as most of us had been for a long time to the wearying monotony of the Pampa country round Buenos Ayres, it may readily be imagined with what delight we looked through the carriage-windows as the train approached Tandil and beheld the grey shapes of the hills looming out against the clear morning sky. The Scotchman saw once more his native heath-covered heights, the Yorkshireman was reminded of his bleak wind-swept "wolds," and the West countryman beheld again the soft rise in the "Westcountree," whilst all felt the approach of that exhilaration of spirit which it is the peculiar office of the hills to excite.

Our first trip was, of course, made to the famous Rocking Stone. With a clatter of hoofs and a rattle of wheels our company passed through the clean streets of Tandil, a merry cavalcade of a dozen horsemen, with a trailing line of coaches bringing up the rear. A half-hour's ride through leafy avenues, green pastures and patches of yellow maize brought us to the base of the hill whence the rocking-stone looks down.

Perched on the extreme verge of the hill, this wonderful freak of Nature excited at once our wonder and curiosity. What force placed it there? What power keeps it there? A ponderous mass of granite so nicely poised that the weak arm of a child can make it oscillate, once the preliminary movement has been imparted.

We sat on the large table-like rock that forms its support and discussed the probable origin of the phenomenon. The scientific members of the company propounded their opinions, which both entertained and instructed, but more interesting were the legends related by the learned professors of the party. These old-time stories, which had their beginning in the times when the untutored Indian roved in freedom through those valleys, naturally connected the stone with the fantastic spiritual beings that haunted the primitive world. "It was the work of the gods," said these early folk, who peopled the stars of heaven and the sweet waters and fair fields of earth with their quaint creations.

The view from the rocking-stone revealed below us fertile valleys, and, stretching out into the misty distances a range after range of hills, dark-hued with the deep tints of late summer.

Our second day's journey took us to "La Cascada de los manantiales," a bare escarpment of granite in the hillside, down which trickled a tiny stream of water that collected into a pool at its base. It was pretty, but not one's idea of a "cascade." Nevertheless, the after-climb atoned for the deficiency of the cascade, for the eye swept over an ever-varying landscape of dale and field and wood resting on the sober grey of the hills that stretched away to the horizon.

Our last trip was to "Los Leones," a majestic hill of solid granite that rises sheer from the green plain like a battlemented castle of the gods. Its massive terraces of clustering boulders deterred most of the company from attempting to reach its summit, but some half-dozen venturesome spirits essayed the bold task, and, after climbing heights that appeared to offer no foothold, and crawling along narrow ledges that overlooked dizzy depths, they reached the top and were rewarded by a view of surpassing beauty.

Sliding, scrambling and leaping, the descent was accomplished, and at the foot a welcome repast of "asado y mate" reinforced our jaded energies.

The three days passed all too quickly, and, when the moment of return came, it was the universally expressed opinion that the holiday was the most enjoyable we had spent in the country.

LORD SALISBURY'S CLOSING SESSION.

(By a Radical M.P.)

My expectation is that the Ministry will get to the end of the session pretty much as they are, and that by August we shall be in the midst of the General Election. There are many who think otherwise. They believe that we shall have a dissolution sprung upon the country somewhere about Easter; and that the Government will be an entirely different one when that election is over. The foundation for this expectation may be thus described: The Ministry are bound and determined to bring in an Irish Local Government Bill. In favour of that bill there is no strong public opinion anywhere; while against there is a magazine of passion and hostility. It is a measure which will owe its existence entirely to House of Commons, as distinguished from popular pressure. The Liberals don't care about it for the same reason, with the additional consideration, that they take it for granted that a bill from a Tory Ministry is bound to be bad. On the other side, the English Tories have sufficiently indicated their views by their refusal to adopt Sir Albert Rollit's resolution in favour of such a measure at their annual conference; while the Irish Tories are declaring through their organs that, as between Mr. Gladstone's Home Rule for all Ireland and Mr. Balfour's for the thirty-two counties, they much prefer the scheme of the Liberal leader. Why, then, it may be asked by those outside Parliament is the Bill brought in? Because it is thought that the Ministry will be much stronger in going to the country with the cry that they have given Ireland just as much as England or Scotland than if they could be charged with leaving Ireland in a condition of inequality.

Furthermore it is pointed out that the session immediately before a dissolution is always the most dangerous of all to a Government. It is the session which has nearly always proved fatal to Liberal Administrations. By that period a great many members have had enough of Parliamentary life, and have made up their minds not to stand again. The number of impending resignations in the present House of Commons is said to be unprecedentedly large. Some well-informed persons put it as high as one-third of the existing members on the Tory side.

Though one-third of the Tory members intend to retire from Parliament, they will not thereby relieve themselves from party influences. Many of them are heads of county families; nearly all have a certain social position; and thus, they are interested in keeping up the traditions and strength of their party. To them, too, can be addressed the very powerful argument that they have to choose between accepting a smaller evil or dealing an exceedingly damaging blow on their own side, which is sure to entail evils of much greater magnitude. The defeat of the Local Government Bill—for its withdrawal would amount to a defeat—would be about the very worst preparation there could possibly be for a general election. How could the Government ask for the confidence of the country in either them or their policy when they and their measure had not succeeded in getting the votes of their own supporters in the House of Commens? I conclude, then, that all speculations as to an early dissolution are idle—that is, when they are founded on the defeat of the Government measure by the action of the Government supporters.

Then there is another contingency. Suppose the Irish Local Government Bill is so bad from the Radical point of view—as to exasperate Radicals and to subdue Conservative hostility; then, indeed, there may be a very good chance of both the dropping of the bill and the acceleration of the dissolution. For this is how Radicals would probably look at the situation. The position of the Government with a number of people in the country would be greatly benefited by their being able to say that they had fulfilled their promise of the election of 1886; that they had given to Ireland local government exactly as they had to England and Scotland; and that it was unreasonable to go any further. The Radical member would be, perhaps, willing to allow the Government to have this much credit if he had his compensation in the extension of real self-government to the Irish counties. But the position, with which I am dealing supposes that the self-government given to the Irish county would be a sham, while the Government would still be able to obtain capital for it as a reality. Under these circumstances it is quite possible, that the measure of the Government would have to encounter a persistent and prolonged hostility which would enable them to drop the bill, and go to the country on the cry that they were unable to carry measures of reform because of the factious and unpatriotic obstruction of the Liberal Opposition.

The Government will have to give their opponents opportunities for harassing attacks on the Estimates. Ministers may keep back, or drop, or amend bills, but there is no getting out of all the limits and barriers by which the voting of money is reserved absolutely to the House of Commons. Suppose the Government appeal for money for a year the Opposition may properly reply that before a year has elapsed another Ministry may be in office, and to that Ministry should be left the full and undivided responsibility for proposing the Estimates for the year. Beaten in the pitched battle which might take place on a motion dealing with this general question, the Opposition could fall back on a detailed examination of every item, and in this way make the progress of the Parliamentary machine very slow and almost impossible. The Government might think it desirable to let this thing go on for some time, with a view to prejudicing the country against the Opposition as obstructive, and even revolutionary; but such a cry would meet, I believe, with little response in the sixth year of a Ministry. By the end of a period of office so prolonged the desire for change has become a most potent and a universal sentiment, and public sympathy is much more likely to be with the party that is ready to give the eager country the fine sporting excitement of a General Election than with the men who want to postpone the fun to an indefinite date.

I sum up the prospects of the coming session, then, as these: That the Government will bring in a Local Government Bill for Ireland; that the chances are they will carry it through to the end; that, if it be dropped, it will be in consequence of obstructive opposition on the part of the Liberals, and not a "cave" among their own supporters; and, finally, that the Government having made up their minds that they can gain nothing by indefinite postponement of the General Election will, take an early opportunity of announcing that it will come at some period of the present year; and that, barring unexpected accidents, August will be the month of the appeal to the nation.

HURLINGHAM RACES.

B. Ayres, March 5th.

Mr. Editor,

Kindly grant me a small space in your valuable paper to reply to Fair Play's letter to you in this morning's issue.

Your correspondent hardly seems to appreciate the meaning of his "nom de plume," in as much as he imputes motives to the Editor of 'Sport and Pastime' for which there are absolutely no grounds when he says it was at least "unfortunate" to suppress the latter part of Rule 8 in the Hurlingham Club's Rules of Racing.

The objection lodged after the race was for a "cross" not a jostle, and it would have been better if Fair Play had made himself cognisant of "the exact wording of the objection" before writing his letter to you. As the objection was for a cross only, the publication of the latter part of Rule 8, which relates to jostling, and which has no thing to do with the preceding part relating to crossing, would have therefore been as unnecessary and uncalled for as the other parts of the Rule which concern wrong weights, matches or sweepstakes, and deadheats.

I may say here that I had no interest whatever in the decision of the stewards. I did not ride the second team, nor had I a single ticket on the event, but simply exercised my right as an official of the club, and objected for the second man, who was unable to do so himself.

Yours etc.

Frank J. Balfour.

RAILWAY ITEMS.

The representative of the Cristobal-Tucuman Railway is trying to get Government to pay the guarantee due for last year. The amount is $105,815 gold.

Mr. W. G. Clark has left the Rosario Railway to join the Entre Riano Railway as accountant. On the occasion of his separation from the Rosario Railway-his fellow-employees made him a hand, some presentation. In our next issue we shall publish the speech made by Mr. Hunt, the manager, on the occasion.

Travellers by the Great Southern Railway are loud in their complaints owing to the bad state of the company's permanent way. Women and children actually get sea-sick on the section to Mar del Plata: the rolling and pitching remind one of the Bay of Biscay in a heavy gale. The line between Altamirano and Las Flores, or at least a section of same, requires ballasting also, for the motion of the trains is very violent. We feel sure that Mr. Barrow, the popular manager, will remedy this state of affairs.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Life was worth living yesterday owing to the saving storm on Friday night. The lightning was a grand sight for an hour or two: while it blazed incessantly in sheets all round the horizon, it flew zig-zag about the heavens in all directions, and the effect was impressive in the extreme Such a sight in Europe would draw a big house: but the lightning there is only vicious, not beautiful to look at.

Little or no fun is expected from the Conventions to-day. A few invincible pessimists are afraid of some hitch or "tornillo flojo" in the machine put together with so much patriotism and trouble.

There are masquerade balls to-night in almost every club and theatre in town, also Corso in Good Humour Street, and at Flores. Then, "adios Carnaval.!"

The Merced church was crowded with the elite of society yesterday morning to witness the wedding of Mr. Samuel Hale Pearson and the lovely Miss Maria Theresa Quintana. The Revd. Canon Rasore performed the ceremony, and the "padrinos" were Mr. Bruno Quintana and Mrs. Pearson. The fair bride was superbly dressed: she looked very pale. After the ceremony the happy couple entered the sacristy, where they received the congratulations of their friends and took leave of them. Later in the day they left for the Tatay estancia, to pass the honeymoon. We offer them our best wishes for their long life and happiness.

Racing men will find a good afternoon's sport provided for them to-day at Palermo, as an attractive programme has been issued, and a good attendance may be expected. Appended are our selections:—

Premio Inauguracion — Polaina or Charlemagne
" Velocidad—Stud Casal
" Apertura—Destructor
" Rivalidad—Athos
" Competencia—Santa Lucia
" Recompensa — Myosotis or Araucaria
" Equidad—The MacGowan.

We are requested to remind the Active members of the Choral Union of the meeting to be held to-morrow (Monday) evening in the hall "La France" at 8.15 p.m.

The following telegrams are detained at the River Plate Telegraph Company, Limited, 287 San Martin: From Rio for Francisco Uriburu, from Paris for Cavalry, from Solingen for Buesch, from London for Claret, from Rio for Harris.

Mr. Richard Purcell arrived last week from his estancia on the Rio Negro, B.O., and is at present on a visit to his brother, the worthy Irish Chaplain of Capilla del Señor. He proposes returning to town for St. Patrick's Day. Things are very unsettled on the other side of the Uruguay river and, much poverty in country districts.

The illuminations last night at the La Plata Club and flower adornments were something fairy-like. This club, of which our popular Lord Mayor is the president, seems to have soared this Carnival to unusual heights of magnificence.

We are requested to state that the tickets for the St. Patrick's Day banquet are now ready, and can be had from the Hon Secretary, Mr. Patrick Ham, at 367 Calle San Martin Only Irishmen or their descendants will be admitted to the feast of reason and flow of soul.

One of the Passionist Fathers will attend at Monte on St. Patrick's Day and will preach a sermon in English at the parish church. The Rev. Father Edmund, Passionist, wil preach at the inauguration of the new Catholic church in Rosario on the same day.

The Lenten Pastoral of His Grace the Archbishop was published yesterday. As we have already stated, His Grace, by authority from the Holy See, has suspended the obligation to fast and abstain during the present Lent.

We invite our bucolic subscribers to flock to our Museum and inspect the mammoth onions and potatoes which we received yesterday from Biedma. Their size fairly takes the breath away. They were grown on the chacra of Captain Jorge Rasmusson at Biedma, and speak for the fertility of the soil in that quarter. The "zapallos" on the same farm are of even more phenomenal dimensions, some of them reaching 70 lbs. in weight.

The good Basques who trot into town every day with the citizens' milk and water have given a practical turn to their indignation at the

Dear Sirs—
"I have tried HAYWARD'S "PASTE" DIP on my Sheep, and have pleasure in bearing testimony to ITS EFFICACY AS A DIP. I need have no hesitation in recommending it generally as a Cure for Scab, without discolouring or damaging the Wool.
The "PASTE" is in my opinion preferable to the Powder, and will probably have a larger sale than the latter."
Yours very truly
(Signed)
JOHN KELLIE.
It has been proved by many important Estancieros that HAYWARD'S PASTE is more convenient to use than any other Dip, being already mixed and dissolving in any kind of water. It makes a smooth soapy bath which adheres well to the Fleece and leaves the wool clean and soft.

ON 'CHANGE.
Saturday, March 5th.
As was expected, the weekly liquidation gave rise to great activity in the gold market this morning. Large amounts of gold were delivered to the liquidator, and one dealer, it is said, took up about fifteen thousand ounces. Nearly thirty thousand ounces changed hands at the first ring: the price opened at $55.70, fell to 55.50, rose to 56, and closed at 55.80, say 2421 ½ premium. Four thousand sovereigns were sold; the price opened at 17.35, fell to 17.30 and closed at 17.35, say 2444 ½ premium. The market closed with buyers at the closing rates.
One of the features of the morning was the sudden collapse in so-called "passes" from week to week and to end of month. Thirty cents centango was paid for next Saturday, and sixty to seventy cents for the end of the month. The fall in the centango is significant.
Patriotic Bonds were weak, falling under 60 for cash. La Plata Cedulas were comparatively active and firm: Series I. closed at 29½ M and O at 29.40, N and P at 29½.
The following is a summary of the business effected in stocks and shares at the first ring to-day:—

The Government decree suspending the Board of the National Bank has raised quite a storm in the market. The Directors of the National Bank consider the decree illegal, and refuse to leave their posts until dismissed by force. The market sympathizes with the Board and views the Government decree with disfavor. The question at issue is very simple:—Has the Government the right to appropriate the management of the Bank? A legal question will ensue and the Courts will decide.
We call special attention to the notice of the English Bank published in another column. The notice confirms the report that a company has been formed to buy up the assets of the English Bank.
Coal-brokers inform us that 24,000 tons of coal are on the way out, consigned to the La Plata Coal Depot Co. Amongst the vessels expected is the Carnbank, carrying 4500 tons of coal; this is the biggest coal cargo ever chartered for the Plate. The other vessels carry 2,500 tons on an average.
The Montevideo Government has seen the errors of its ways too late in the day; it is now endeavouring to get back the coal trade, the monopoly of which, we may say, Montevideo enjoyed for many years. But Montevideo cannot compete with La Plata, owing to the facilities of handling at the latter port. Montevideo loses millions by this shifting of the coal business.
Through some extraordinary mistake the Argentine torpedo-boat Murature has been driven high and dry on top of the bank outside the "malecones" of the Riachuelo. The man at the helm must have had a queer idea of the vagaries of the Riachuelo channel to go so far out of his way. The torpedo boat, however, will get off at next high tide and will suffer little or nothing

The Chairman of the Board of Public Works has applied to the Government for 45,000$ to keep State roads in repair. The Department of Engineers have applied for 3,750$ to repair public buildings.

The Land Investment Company have signified their willingness to forego their rights to eight leagues of land in Cordoba and Santa Fé, if the National Government relieve them of the obligation to colonise their concession in the valley of the Rio Negro. The Chief of the Land Office approves the proposal, but opines that the Company are only entitled to four leagues of land in Cordoba and Santa Fe: in this case it would suit the Government to expropriate that area in the above named provinces and oblige the company to carry out the colonization scheme in the Rio Negro.

The gold market ruled very weak at the second ring; about ten thousand ounces were sold for Monday; the price opened at $55.80 and closed weak at 55.30, say 2391 o/o premium. Sovereigns opened at $17.20, rose to 17.30, and closed at 17.15, say 2404 o/o premium.

The new Banco Popular in the flourishing town of Mercedes opened its doors on the 1st inst. The inauguration ceremony was interesting. Don Nicolas Lowe, the great promoter of the Bank, made a fine speech, in which he sketched the vicissitudes of Mercedes. Mr. Diaz Menendez spoke also at length, and wound up by stating that Don Nicholas Lowe combined all the great virtues of the Saxon and Latin races. The bank, we may add, meets a want in Mercedes; the very first day over one hundred thousand dollars were lodged in deposit. All the chief towns of the province should follow the example of Mercedes.

HORSFORDS PHOSPHATIC BAKING POWDER

Ordinary Baking Powders are made either of Cream Tarter or Alum. Cream Tartar powders leave in the bread Rochelle Salts, a continuous use of which is not desirable. Alum powders are condemned by physicians as unhealthful. Neither of these powders add anything of nutritive value to the bread, and both produce, biscuit, cake, etc., that are dry and tasteless when cold. Professor Horsford's Phosphatic Baking Powder leaves in the Bread etc., the life sustaining Phosphates of which the flour is deprived in the process of bolting, and which are necessary to maintain health.

DAY. SON & HEWITT'S Veterinary Medicines

Estancia Las Rosas,
Ferro-Carril Central Argentino,
10th Jan., 1891.

I consider that no estancia which has any stock worth giving medicines to ought to be without these medicines.

The GASEOUS FLUID is the very best colic medicine I have ever seen given to horses, and the RED DRENCH for any illness after foaling or calving or lambing is, I consider splendid.

Yours truly,
(Signed) W. KEMMIS.

Hon. Medical Officer—
Dr. MACKERN, Tucuman 571.
Superintendent—
Mr. CARSON.

Patients are received on Tuesdays and Fridays, and a carriage will be at Lomas Station to meet the train which leaves Plaza Constitucion at 4.50 p.m., so as to convey them and their luggage to the Home.

Private patients pay $5 per day; ordinary patients $2 per day.

Recommendations for free orders can be obtained from any member of the Committee, but applicants must prove that they have no means wherewith to meet the ordinary charges of the Home.

To obtain the order for admission, a recommendation must be taken to the Hon Medical Officer, accompanied by a note from the patient's doctor certifying that this a case coming within the rules of the Institution.

Visitors are allowed to see their friends on Wednesdays and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m. and for their convenience a Brake belonging to the Institution will on every Sunday afternoon be waiting the arrival of the 2.15 train at Lomas, (train leaves Plaza Constitucion at 1.45 p.m.) and take them to the Home and back free of charge.

Subscriptions and donations in aid of the funds of the Home will be thankfully received by the Honorary Treasurer.

THE

INJURIOUS TEA DRINKING.

In the "Daily Post" of September 2 appears a leading article—evidently from an analytical expert—showing that after 15 minutes "draw," Indian Tea yields 17.73 o/o tannin, while from China comes only 7.93. What this means few know, but those troubled with indigestion may realise in part by use of True China Tea for one week.

GUARANTEED PURE.

Beware of gross imitations of this well-known mark. Sold in tins of 1, 3, 6 and 12 lbs.

Orders received by the foreman of th «Standard.»

At the Estancia Grande, the property of GEORGE BELL, there are always on Sale Clydesdale and Cleveland Stallions, Durham Bulls, and Lincoln Rams, also Potros suitable for carriages and heavy draught.

As all animals offered for sale at this Estancia are by stallions, bulls, etc., imported direct from England by the owner, it would therefore be advantageous for intending purchasers to inspect the same before purchasing elsewhere.
Nearest Station (under a league from the Estancia) EMPALME PEREIRA F.C. a La Plata from whence animals can be despatched to any part of the Republic.
Animals of the same breeds are obtainable at the Estancia La Favorita. Apply to the Mayordomo, Almacen La Suiza, Carrera Tandil a Necochea, or to Hotel Dhees, Tandil; also at Estancia Santa Catalina. Apply Mayordomo, San Jose de la Esquina, F.C.O.S. Rosario.

CANNON'S Sheep Dip
which obtained the only Prize medal at the Exhibition in Edinburgh 1890, and the eulogiums of all the Agricultural Press at the Royal Agricultural Show at Doncaster in 1891, where were exhibited Skins dressed with Cannon's Dip and those undressed showing a difference in value of over 25/ per dozen in favor of Cannon's Fluid. These Skins will be exhibited at the Feria of the Sociedad Rural at Dolores and Chascomus.
This Dip has the following advantages:—It never stains the wool, but augments the growth and ensures the highest value in the market. It is easy to use, being readily soluble in cold water, and hand curing is rarely required after.
